Madagascar: Island of Lemurs

Date: 24 September to 5 October 2016

Price: £3285***

The itinerary for this 12 day adventure to Madagascar is designed to provide the best opportunities to see and photograph Lemurs in the wild and marvel at the incredible range of other wildlife in this amazing large and diverse country. We concentrate on two prime locations that are home to many species of Lemur, and offer an optional 5 day extension to Kenya's Masai Mara

Madagascar may be only a few hundred kilometres from Africa but it is like another world. Indeed it is far enough from the mainland that, over millions of years of evolution, the plants and animals have evolved into some of the strangest on the planet with over 80% being found nowhere else on Earth. There over 70 species of lemur - unique to the island - and even amongst these species there is a great diversity including the Aye-aye, the Sifakas and the Indri. In this biodiversity hotspot many species of birds, reptiles, insects, amphibians and flora are also endemic to the island. On this tour we concentrate on Berenty Private Nature Reserve famous for the "dancing" Verreaux's Sifaka and Andasibe-Mantadia National Park where the Indri may be seen.

Tour Description

Our tour starts with an evening flight from London Heathrow which arrives in Nairobi, Kenya the following morning. We then join a flight to Antananarivo (Tana) in Madagascar where we spend the rest of the day.

The following morning we transfer to our lodge near Andasibe, on the edge of the Analamazaotra Special Reserve, for four days. The humid montane forests contain a huge range of plants including hundreds of orchid species which flower from September to January. The wildlife is superb with 13 lemur species, over 100 bird species, some 50 reptiles, and over 80 amphibian species. Early mornings are spent in search of the famous Indri, whose haunting cry will be heard echoing through the forest, the rare Diademed Sifakas and other Lemur species. Night walks in the forest can be very rewarding, particularly for chameleons and other seldom seen nocturnal species.

We then return to Tana and fly to Berenty Nature Reserve for four days where we explore on foot by day and by night. Berenty offers a great opportunity to view and photograph several lemur species including Verreaux's Sifaka (the famous 'dancing' lemur), Ring-tailed Lemur, Red-fronted Brown Lemur, the nocturnal White-footed Sportive Lemur, Grey Mouse Lemur and the Fat-tailed Dwarf Lemur. At the time of year we visit, many of the species are breeding and the young are frequently seen.

After returning to Tana, we fly back to Nairobi in Kenya the following morning and then either connect with the onward flight to London or continue to Kenya's Masai Mara for five days to perhaps witness the Wildebeest Migration, see the Big Cats and enjoy photographing a superb variety of other wildlife.

In addition to providing great photographic opportunities, our tours are designed to offer a wide appreciation of the natural beauty of Africa's wildlife, people and the environment. The itinerary provides you with the maximum time in the field so we can offer you the best photographic opportunities, including giving help when it is needed. We aim to give you a highly enjoyable holiday and for you to feel that our knowledgeable guides have provided you with unique opportunities to view and capture images of the natural world.

This exciting adventure offers a wonderful opportunity to see some of the world's rarest wildlife and provides a magnificent variety of game viewing and photographic opportunities.
